

SKILLS MIND MAP

The study skills you need for success at university will be learned and applied in many modules. Identifying the skills you have/need and where you can apply them is an important part of your success

Consider these reflective questions:

1. What skills are you learning in this module?
2. What skills are required for success in this module?
3. What study skills do you already have?
4. What study skills would you like to develop further?
5. Where can these skills also be useful?
6. How could you apply one of these to another module this semester?

Now draw a mind map showing all the study skills you have/need and where you can develop/apply them, both in and out of university:
